

Opening of a New Cultural Center
by Brandon M. Dennis

“Today is the day Mort!”

“You said it Herb. Today we will finally open our beautiful building.”

“One thing though Mort; did you ever decide on a name?”

“I was thinking of calling it the Cultural Ethnic Center.”

“Hmm. Not bad. What about the Ethnic Cultural Center?”

“That might work too. Or we could try Culturally Ethnic, or maybe even Ethnically Cultural.”

“Oh! I’ve got it. Let’s call it the Ethnically Cultural Center of Diversity.”

“Brilliant Herb! Although, would it sound better if we called it the Diverse Center of Cultural Ethnicity?”

“Maybe. Has a nice ring to it. How about the Cultural Center of Ethnic Diversity?”

“Or the Center of Ethnically Diverse Culture.”

“Arg, so many choices. But I just had a revelation!”

“What’s that then Herb?”

“Ethnic Center of Diverse Cultural Tolerance.”

“Wow. Beautiful! I would have never thought of that.”

“Does it sound too gaudy?”

“Eh... we could try the Culturally Tolerant Center of Diverse Ethnicity.”

“Or the Ethnically Diverse Center of Tolerant Culture.”

“Center for Tolerating Diverse Ethnic Cultures?”

“Let’s try the Tolerant Ethnic Center of Diverse Cultures.”

“I’m keen on Tolerating Ethnically Diverse Centers through Culture.”

“That doesn’t even make sense.”

“Oh. Let’s just pick one and settle it then.”

“Okay, okay, okay. The Diverse Center of Tolerant Cultural Ethnicity.”

“Perfect.”

“Or do you prefer The Ethnically Tolerant Cultural Center of Diversity and Acceptance?”

“No. We’re done.

“Okay.”